

BODEGA
NORTON
WINE DINNER

In 1885, the Buenos Aires to Mendoza railway opened and on that year one visitor to Mendoza, an English engineer called Edmund Norton, was struck by the beauty and potential he saw there he established a winery bearing his name, in 1995 planted the first vines.

Almost a century later, Gernot Langes-Swarovski was similarly struck by Mendoza and its vineyard; in 1989, he acquired Bodega Norton and set about transforming it into the world-renowned winery it is today.
